i Jail, though intended purely for the prisoners, does not amount to 'manufacturers' for the purpose of Rule 3 of the Excise notification of 29.6.1912.

ASR

The question is whether the water used in the B.C. jail for polling shed is to be considered as water used for bona fide domestic purpose within the meaning of Rule 3 in the rules (Flag A).

The making of pots in the jail means amount to manufacture and water used for manufacture is stated in that rule not to amount to water being used for domestic purpose. Therefore water used for the polling shed is not to be considered to be used for domestic purpose. The chief Engineer is also of the same opinion.

18.11.24

It is not stated in the rule that the manufacture should be for trade, business or business. Water used for manufacture whether for using the articles manufactured for domestic purposes or not should therefore be considered as being used for non domestic purpose within the meaning of that rule.

The manufacture of pots in the jail is not for purposes of trade. It is for the use of the jail itself as such the water used is required as for domestic purposes. Hence amended

Sir,

With reference to G.O. No.P11760-2/Pris 73-21-4 dated 30th June 1923, regarding the adjustment of water charges of the Bangalore Central Jail, I have the honor to state that the Superintendent of the Jail reports in his letter No.182/F.76 dated the 2nd.
